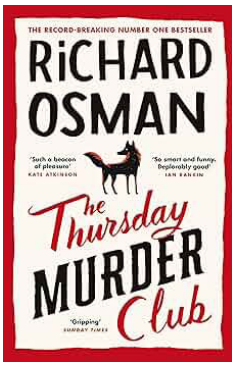
Volunteer book review

by Steve Pagei

The Thursday Murder Club
by Richard Osman



I don't do Miss Marple. I'm more of an urban thriller kinda guy. Fantasy & Science Fiction too. So when my little sister handed me Richard Osman's first three 'Thursday Murder Club' books, telling me I'd love them, well, I was sceptical to say the least. Rural. Gentle. Whimsical. Not my mug of tea.

But I devoured them. I grinned. I laughed. I stayed up late to get through the next chapter. I think it was the intelligent humour, the conversational narrative and the true to life characters and dialogue. I was brought up on the borders of London and Kent and much of what was described was familiar from trips down to Tonbridge and to the Kent coast.

There is much to keep who-dun-it fans hooked and there's much more to keep lovers of good story telling reading. It's 21st Century Miss Marple if she'd been left in a retirement village with like-minded neighbours to keep her in check.

I hate hyped up books, but I see what all the fuss is about. And I'll be reading #4 which has just been released.

Thank you and welcome!

The Library would not be able to run without the help of all of our fantastic volunteers who regularly give up their own time to ensure that the library is an inviting and inclusive place for all users. Thank you everyone!
